Gowri Chandrashekar Nayak known as 'Lady Bhagiratha' as she dug a 75 feet well by herself at the age of 51 to solve the water issues of farmers in her neighbourhood was felicitated by Smt Shilpa Nag and College, following which Smt Shilpa Nag, was also felicitated on the occasion. Addressing the students, Gowri Chandrashekar Nayak said the well is her God, but she did not see it as a big task. She said humbly, 'I dug the well with an intention of solving the water crisis in my farm. I did not see it as a big feat'. She was in news for digging the well by herself within three months. The well became a source of water for many farmers in the neighbourhood.

In her acceptance speech, Smt Shilpa Nag said women are also human beings with flaws and should not be placed on the pedestal. 'Women are expected to look good, be smart and fit and perform well at the same time. We have to face so many expectations. What everyone should realise is that we are also humans with flaws and weaknesses' she said. She said before expecting women to contribute equally to the society, duties like childcare, parenting and domestic chores should be equally shared between both genders. However, she pointed out that a change is happening and now men have also started sharing household works, especially in metros. Highlighting poor political representation of women, the MCC commissioner said, 'equal representation in politics is necessity, as policy and decision making is done by politicians. Also iterated that, however, in India, women's representation is close to 19% this should be changed and women's representation in politics should be 50% in line with the share of the population.

In her concluding remarks the chief guest reiterated the 2019 International Women's Day theme – 'Balance for Better at Workplace' (meant to promote gender equality at the workplace). Further quoted 'Lead Thyself, Love Thyself and Respect Thyself' and mentioned that 'The world is ready for you but are you ready for it'.
